FRIDAY AFTERNOON, OCT. 3.

We receive a great many communications from persons whose names are withheld or unknown to us, and of course we can pay no attention to them.

Growing Enterprise in the Southern States.

Believing that the "Direct Trade" movement on the part of the South now going on will have the happiest results in turning the energies and resources of the South into the legitimate channel of commerce and manufactures, we will use our best exertions to give it every assistance in our power. The Conventions that have already met have acted with great unanimity of sentiment and spirit, and the Convention of Planters held at Macon, Georgia, on the 27th inst., deserves the serious consideration of the South. The cotton, rice, wool, lumber, manufacturing and shipping interests are involved in it. Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Tennessee, and Louisiana will be represented, and the movement, originating among the Planters, will terminate in some great change in trade. And while the other districts of the country are arousing themselves, should Maryland be idle with her tobacco interest? Will she have no representative at the Convention? Is Baltimore satisfied with her partial success? Have not foreign agents in this country for years been reaping the benefit of her produce, and particularly her tobacco? Are not the agents of the present system agents for the consumers and not for the producers? - and is such an arrangement conducive of good to the farming and planting interests? Even the Capital of this great country has not one single importing house!!

We hope this subject will be taken up as it deserves. Let the South turn her attention to trade and manufactures, instead of politics, for the redress of the grievances of which she complains.

We shall hereafter discuss this subject at length, and shall have it in our power to publish a large amount of statistical matter for the information of our Southern friends.

Puffing and Annihilation!

Newspaper editors have very commonly fallen into this error, but nowhere more generally than in this locality. The city of Washington has always afforded so small an amount of advertising patronage, that publishers have not thought it worth looking to as a means of support, but have kept their attention fixed on public sources. The consequence is, that the duties for which editors elsewhere are best paid, are performed here gratuitously. A very large proportion of the "local articles," upon examination, will be found the best kind of advertisements, intended to promote private interests. In charities, free concerts or exhibitions, benevolent enterprises, or whatever the getters-up choose to call by these names, every thing is paid for but the advertising; and while marriages and funerals prove profitable to the parson, the confectioner, the dry-goods man, the undertaker, the sexton, and everybody, the publisher works without recompense. Somebody says, "reform it." That is not so easy; it is easier to observe the wise injunction, "When you are in Turkey, do as the turkeys do!"

The editor of the Charlestown Free Press refers to these abuses and says: "We are tired of ish the larder." This certainly is a serious objec-

The competition between editors to "give the news first," renders them an easy prey to the knowing ones. Thus the two best advertised objects (except Brandreth's pills) ever introduced into this country have been Jenny
Lind and Phillips's Fire Annihilator, and yet the

It has been thought heretofore that it required a written appointment from the President or Section. work has been done gratuitously, and editors have fancied themselves lucky in receiving articles ready written. They have probably not repented their praises of the beautiful singer; but some seem to doubt the vast utility of the great Extinguisher!

The Philadelphia Sun, for example, asks: "Is ' it not a little singular, that although we hear ' rights disposed of, for the sale and use of Phil-' lips's Fire Annihilator, we have heard of no one instance as yet in which it has been practically applied to the extinction of fires, excepting such as had been purposely kindled ' for the trial of the machine, under the most ' favorable circumstances?" And the Baltimore Sun has a letter from a New York correspondent, who informs us that " this company is of which will not run out until public disappointment shall close them. The amount of sales and contracts for the Annihilator is imdeferred exhibition of the power of the Anni-' hilator is again talked of. Let them apply it ' to the real fires of every-day occurrence. The attractive toy will soon be cast aside for some ' new plaything, by the gullible public. Perhaps, however, it may lead to some improve-' ments of substantial value."

This may or may not be so, but the press is editorially responsible for more haphazard puffing than it has ever had a good motive for per-

TESTIMONIAL OF RESPECT.-The Rev. F. S. Evans having recently resigned his situation as chief clerk of the Pension Office, the clerks attached to it caused to be manufactured, by Mr. Samuel Lewis, a large and handsome silver pitcher "as a testimonial of their regard for his faithful, impartial, and honest services." We might suggest, as an improveforty of these gentlemen assembled at the residence of Mr. Evans, on Wednesday, when Major Kirby, as their organ, presented the pitcher in an appropriate address. The compliment was acknowledged in appropriate terms by the recipient. - Republic.

Foreigners who have been several years in this country are seldom the subjects of police care. The bad among them reform their habits or die off very soon. Though our climate is far from unhealthy, there is something in it and its vicissitudes under which the European of slothful and dissipated habits soon sinks. Could the number of those who arrive on our shores in any one year, and the portion of that number who survive at the end of five years, be ascertained, the truth exhibited would be truly appalling.

We see these people arriving in tens of thouands, and often the thought occurs that so great an influx must un-Americanise American society; yet, except when they unwisely continue to cling together in communities, in the lapse of the time we have named, death will be found to have removed a fearfully large proportion, while they who remain have acquired a practical knowledge of the habits and customs

The negro, however, is not improving in this city, but deteriorating. Idleness, sloth, immorality, and physical suffering prevail among them to such an extent, that they who do for short periods go out to service are unpleasant and dangerous inmates of our houses, while and dangerous inmates of our houses, while charge of kidnapping. Much excitement con-hundreds and thousands of them are crowded in tinues to prevail. An inspection of their houses and a knowledge of their late Mrs. T. We commend it to our worthy Mayor and the officers acting under

It is proper, however, that we should add that many honorable exceptions may be found to this description; but where a negro or mulatto endeavors to perform his duty and live respectably, he has to encounter the prejudices excited by the miserable habits of the masses.

A Charge of Mal-Administration.

The following has been handed us for publito his communication:

To the Editors of the American Telegraph. GENTLEMEN: It has been said and often reterated, that the people have a right to know how their affairs are administered by their servants. It is therefore my purpose to inform them by the Telegraph, as your paper is the usual channel through which the people are informed of the mal-administration of their Gov-vernment Well, to begin, it will be remembered that Judge Hall, the late Second Comptroller, having received an appointment to settle California land titles, resigned his post of Second Comptroller, on the 10th of September last, and that James Madison Cutts, the chief clerk of that office, was appointed Comptroller pro tem., until the Hon. E. J. Phelps (the present Comptroller) should arrive and be installed, which happened on the 1st instant. This, without any other appointment, would leave the chief clerkship vacant pro tem. No appointment was made, and the salary of this office was without a legal claimant up to pay-day, the 30th of September; but by a hocus-pocus ideal promotion, they man-age to appropriate it thus: The clerk standing point of salary to the chief clerk is promoted to this position, his place being taken working for nothing—besides, it does not replen- by the clerk immediately below him; and thus were all the clerks in this office promoted for no other purpose than to receive the additional salary these positions would give them; and to the honor of some, be it said, they refused to receive the additional salary. It now becomes the people to inquire if it was retary to an office before the people's money could be drawn from the Treasury to pay for the services of the incumbent; but it would pear that no such warrant is required for clerks in the Second Comptroller's Office, and that it is not necessary to actually fill the office to entitle the ideal clerk to the salary; and more espe-cially, that some one in that office has the power to make appointments and promotions. This is it not a little singular, that although we hear certainly a new discovery, and for which Mr. of companies being organized, and patent Corwin ought to be truly thankful, as it will transfer applications and applicants for appointments in this office to the party having the power, as it would appear by this novel proseeding. Another point is established, to wit: that gentlemen who desire to serve their country in office should apply in the proper quarter hereafter, and not harass the Secretary with a narrative of their patriotic services to induce their appointment. Should the First Auditor think proper to condent, who informs us that "this company is doing a smashing business—that Barnum has, be "confirmation strong" that this financial feat in this, struck upon a gold mine—the pockets has the authority of law, and that some one in the Comptroller's office can appoint and promote to office. This will be good news to unsuccess ful applicants for office, and inspire them with the courage to apply for preferment in a quarmense, and it has never yet put out any but a ter where they may have more hope of success than fire, and, I fear, never will. The long-AN OUTSIDER.

A number of partridges have lately been seen in town. Several were killed. We do not know why they should take refuge in the streets of a town, at this season .- Alex. Gazette.

Because, having more confidence in your police authorities than these functionaries are entitled to, they think the streets of a city a safe refuge. They have made the same mistake here, and have suffered by it, as have also the windows of some of the houses. Percussion caps go off finely.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT .- The Providence Jour nal, in an article on capital punishment, objects to the gallows, as brutal and demoralizing, and suggests the garrote as a substitute. The nul also revives the idea of giving the hangee ment, that the murderer should administer chloroform to his victim, before he knocks him on the head or cuts his throat. Some little humanity should be evinced for those who are liable to be the victims of crime, as well as for the criminal .- Phila. Ledger.

The Republic, of this morning, says: "It is not true, that we have ever defended or apologized for Mr. Owen. We think his conduct feeble and reprehensible, and we have prompt and active intercession for the unfortunate men who were shot by command of the Captain-General. Still further, we say that the attempt to excuse or palliate his inaction by pleading the President's proclamation, if it is true that he did so, was altogether unjustifiable. A juryman or a judge might as well re-fuse to recommend a convict to mercy, or the Executive refuse to exercise his prerogative of pardon, because the subject in whose behalf it had been invoked had been called by a good many hard names in the indictment. Language that is not only proper, but indispensable, to warn men of the nature of a crime, and to deter against its commission, may well enough find its way into a proclamation, without furnishing the law of the case, after the proclamation has discharged its office, and men in spite of it have rushed into the crimes and subected themselves to the penalties it denounced.

"So with regard to the Captain-General Concha. We think his spirat in the butchery of fifty victims was bloodthicsty and inhuman, and entirely at war with the spirit of modern civilization. But, for all that, we do not propose to stultify ourselves by seeking to represent this act as an infraction of our treaty, which would justify our Government in carrying fire and sword into Cuba to avenge the wrong.

It is much easier to create than to calm unjust apprehension or dangerous enthusiasm. The meanest and most detestable tool of faction may produce excitement, and stimulate mobs, which the united efforts of wisdom and prudence may fail to extinguish and suppress.
